

Sample Sermons

To follow are three sample sermons which were found on the Internet. Each approaches domestic violence from a different perspective, allowing anyone wanting to write a sermon on this issue some ideas for how to approach the topic. The sermons found here are not meant to express the opinions of FaithLink, they are merely samples of how some ministers have approached the topic.

“Bullies and Family Violence,” looks at the various forms bullying takes and its relationship to family violence. Kiely offers suggestions for what can be done to prevent bullying.

“Domestic Violence Sermon: Se Safe and well. Peace. Joy. Courage,” takes a broad perspective, educating the congregation about domestic violence, both locally and nationally (American). It also examines the issue from a biblical perspective.

“Remembrance: Where Healing Begins,” looks at domestic violence within a larger context of social injustice and violence against women. It takes a more challenging look at biblical passages and how they’ve been used historically.

Additional sample sermons can be found online at

<http://www.vawnet.org/DomesticViolence/PreventionAndEducation/Approaches/FaithBased.php>